1.0 Introduction

InnoTech Ltd., a new Singapore-based start-up, offers digital transformation solutions for SMEs. After securing seed funding, it is scaling rapidly and plans major expansion within a year. The founders aim to build an inclusive, compliant, and motivating workplace, attracting talent from diverse backgrounds and career stages.

This report presents a proposed Compensation and Benefits Plan for a specific employee segment: Administrative Assistants. This support-level group, with an age range of between 25 and 55 and a minimum qualification of a High School Diploma or Certificate in Office Management, requires a total rewards package that appeals to both younger professionals and mature workers.

2.0 Objectives of Proposed Plan

The objectives are tailored, quantifiable, and meaningful, directly supporting InnoTech's strategic aims for this employee group. The targets for measurement are based on present market standards.

- Objective 1: Attract Qualified Support Staff. The plan must be competitive enough to secure competent administrative talent essential for efficient scaling.

Measurement: Achieve a hire-to-offer acceptance rate of 90% or more for the Administrative Assistant role within the first six months.

- Objective 2: Promote Retention and Stability. Minimise turnover to ensure business continuity and reduce recruitment costs.

Measurement: Maintain an annual voluntary turnover rate of 10% or less for Administrative Assistants over the first 18 months of operation.

- Objective 3: Ensure Local Market Competitiveness. The remuneration package must be benchmarked against similar support roles in the Singapore tech SME sector.

Measurement: Ensure the recommended base salary mid-point is within the 50th to 65th percentile of similar roles in Singapore.

3.0 Analysis

3.1 Needs and Expectations of Administrative Assistants

Administrative assistants in Singapore's tech industry handle key tasks such as scheduling and vendor coordination. They prioritise stability, health benefits, flexible hours, and upskilling (Infocomm Media Development Authority, 2024). According to Rober Walters (2024), those skilled with digital tools command higher salaries.

This group is characterised by a wide age range, suggesting a mix of younger professionals and mature workers. Their needs and expectations are diverse and must be addressed for the plan to be effective:

- Financial Security and Certainty: A stable and competitive base salary is the primary financial expectation (Ministry of Manpower Singapore, 2025). Mature workers (35 to 55) will prioritise job security and comprehensive financial planning, including robust CPF contributions, to support dependents and long-term retirement planning (Central Provident Fund Board, 2025).
- Work-Life Integration: Given the company's planned hybrid work model and the presence of older employees, flexibility and work-life balance are critical. Generous annual and sick leave provisions, coupled with flexibility in working hours (within core operational limits), are highly valued for managing family and personal commitments (Goh & Ang, 2022).
- Health and Well-being: Comprehensive health benefits are a key retention factor for all age groups, becoming a higher priority for mature workers. A plan that actively promotes well-being aligns directly with InnoTech's objective by addressing holistic health needs (Aon Hewitt, 2023).

- Development Opportunities: While younger administrative professionals (25-35) may actively seek up-skilling and training to advance their careers, even mature workers benefit from training in new digital tools or advanced office management to remain relevant in a digital transformation startup (Ng & Soh, 2021).

3.2 Common Practices in Singapore's SME Tech Sector

Industry benchmarking reveals that Singaporean tech SMEs typically offer:

- Compensation Structure: Base salary constitutes the largest component of pay. (Ministry of Manpower Singapore, 2024). Variable pay (eg annual performance bonus) is commonly tied to both individual performance and overall company success (Aon Hewitt, 2023).
- Benefits Differentiation: Beyond mandatory CPF and statutory leave (CPF Board, 2025; MOM, 2024), competitive packages include enhanced Annual Leave (AL) provisions, comprehensive group medical insurance (GHS), covering hospitalisation, surgery and outpatient), and flexible benefits allowance (Ng & Soh, 2021). The provision of flexible allowances is a growing trend (Aon Hewitt, 2023).

3.3 Prioritisation

Based on the analysis, the most critical elements for the Administrative Assistant compensation plan are:

- Statutory and Legal Compliance: Full adherence to Singapore's Employment Act, Central Provident Fund Act and Work Injury Compensation Act is non-negotiable.
- Competitive Fixed Base Salary: This ensures financial stability and market competitiveness.
- Comprehensive Health and Flexible Benefits: This is crucial for attracting and retaining the wide age-group workforce and promoting employee well-being.

4.0 Compensation & Benefits Plan

The proposed plan is designed to be inclusive and motivating for Administrative Assistants and all other employees, supporting InnoTech's commitment to compliance and a diverse workforce, matching market salary trend and comparable public service benefits.

4.1 Remuneration Recommendations

The compensation package uses a flexible wage system, combining fixed and variable pay such as MVC, MI, PB, and AWS. This allows salaries to adjust with economic changes and rewards performance, ensuring competitiveness in the tech sector. The salary range aligns with market benchmarks for Singapore tech startup administrative roles to ensure equitable pay (see Table A1 in Appendix A and Table E1 in Appendix E).

4.2 Benefits Recommendations

Singapore Civil Service is recognised for its innovation strategies and practices (Chan & ChannelNewsAsia, 2024). The proposed benefits package matches Civil Service offerings, attracting and retaining skilled employees, who are happy coming to work, while supporting their well-being, growth, and long-term commitment (Public Service Division Singapore, 2025). See Table A2 in Appendix A for details.

5.0 Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs)

A comprehensive list of Frequently Asked Questions (FAQs) related to the Compensation and Benefits Plan, is presented in Appendix B. The appendix provides detailed responses classified according to “Wages”, “Benefits”, “Eligibility Criteria”, “Claim Procedures” and “Others”.

For a detailed outline of the Compensation and Benefits Policy (2026), please refer to Appendix C. The list of FAQs supports the policy document, addressing common queries and provide clarification on key aspects of the proposed plan.

6.0 Conclusion

InnoTech's Compensation and Benefits Plan for Administrative Assistants supports company growth and diversity by offering competitive monthly salaries ($2400 to $4000), annual bonuses (up to 1.5 months), at least 14 days of annual leave, comprehensive health coverage (including dental and optical), and $1200 in flexible wellness benefits to promote employee well-being and retention.

Strategic non-statutory benefits, like Flexible Benefits ($1000 a year) and Wellness Benefits ($200 a year), address diverse employee needs, support younger staff, and improve satisfaction and productivity. NS Time-Off also shows InnoTech's commitment to National Service obligations and appeals to NSmen employees.

The plan is fully compliant with Singapore's statutory requirements, reflecting the organisation's legal integrity. InnoTech's approach is designed to attract, motivate, and retain a diverse workforce, supporting the company's ambitious expansion while fostering an inclusive, vibrant, and loyal employee community.

Dress-down attire signals the company's commitment to innovation and results, helping to create a modern, open workplace and attract tech-savvy talent. It encourages informal interactions across teams and leadership, fostering a sense of belonging and strong internal culture. Employees are welcome to express their individuality through attire, within reasonable professional limits, supporting our inclusive culture.

4.2 Professional Standards

Employees may wear casual attire every working day, unless specific business requirements necessitate formal dress (e.g., client meetings or external events).

While casual attire is encouraged, employees should ensure their clothing remains neat, appropriate, and suitable for a professional environment.

Examples of Appropriate Attire

- Male: Dark jeans / chinos, polo shirts, casual button-down shirts (no tie required), loafers, or clean sneakers.

5. Performance Management

InnoTech Ltd. is committed to fostering a culture of high performance, continuous feedback, and fair assessment. The Performance Bonus (PB) and Merit Increment (MI) are directly linked to the outcomes of this system.

5.1 Framework and Assessment

InnoTech Ltd. adheres to the principle of a fair performance management system (as advised by TAFEP), ensuring:

1. Clear Expectations: All employees have clearly defined job scopes, Key Performance Indicators (KPIs), and goals at the start of the performance cycle.
2. Regular Feedback: Managers are required to conduct regular check-ins (at least quarterly) to provide timely, constructive, and balanced feedback on performance and development.
3. Annual Performance Review: A formal review is conducted annually, resulting in a performance grade (e.g., A, B, C) that reflects the employee's achievements, competencies, and behaviours over the review period.
4. Objective Criteria: Performance assessment is based on a transparent framework, covering both what was achieved (results against KPIs) and how it was achieved (adherence to company values and demonstration of core competencies).

5.2 Performance Expectations for Compensation

The Performance Grade directly influences the quantum of the Annual Performance Bonus (PB) and the eligibility and quantum for a Merit Increment (MI):

- Exceptional Performance (A Grade): Eligible for the maximum PB and MI, recognising sustained, high-impact contributions that significantly exceed goals.
- Good Performance (B Grade): Eligible for a substantial PB and MI, recognising solid, consistent performance that meets or exceeds most goals.

- Satisfactory Performance (C Grade): Eligible for a moderate PB, recognising performance that meets core requirements but may not be eligible for a Merit Increment.
- Needs Improvement (D / E Grade): Not eligible for Performance Bonus or Merit Increment. Employees will be placed on a performance improvement plan (PIP) with management support.

3. Flexi-Load (Part-Time): Requests for reduced working hours (part-time work) may be considered on a case-by-case basis. Approved employees will have their monthly gross wage converted to an hourly rate as per Section 2.

6.2 FWA Request and Approval

1. Submission: Employees must submit a formal FWA request to their direct manager, outlining the arrangement, duration, and how performance and business needs will be met.
2. Assessment: Managers will assess the request based on the FWA Policy, considering business impact (e.g., quality, productivity, customer service) and feasibility (e.g., job nature, departmental coverage).
3. Decision: The manager must respond to the request within a reasonable timeframe (typically within 21 days). Approval is subject to prevailing business needs and management discretion. If a request is denied, the manager must provide the reasons for denial.

Propose Salary Package and Progression for Administrative Roles

INTRODUCTION

The salary package for administrative roles at InnoTech Ltd aims to ensure fair, competitive compensation that reflects the responsibilities and contributions of our staff. Designed to attract, motivate, and retain skilled employees, this package supports professional growth while aligning with industry standards and the company's objectives. The total rewards package handbook is periodically reviewed and updated to reflect regulatory changes and organisational requirements.

MEAN MONTHLY SALARY OF ADMINISTRATIVE ASSISTANTS IN TECH STARTUPS

In Singapore, new Administrative Assistants earn an average of $2,100 per month in the general sector, typically rising to $3,600 after ten years, with most increases occurring in the first five years before levelling off. These roles are tied to traditional office tools and offer stable but slower wage growth due to less flexible structures.

Tech startups, by contrast, offer higher starting salaries of $2,400 per month, which increase to $4,000 over ten years. Salary growth remains steady, with only a slight slowdown after six years. Compensation in this sector is typically 15–20% higher than in the general sector, driven by performance incentives, broader responsibilities, and attractive benefits such as bonuses. Administrative Assistants in tech are expected to be tech-savvy and adaptable, thriving in a dynamic environment. The rapid growth of the industry increases demand for versatile support staff, which in turn drives up salaries.

To remain competitive and to attract and retain top talents, Administrative Assistant salaries must be highly competitive and consistently above the General Singapore Market average throughout all years of service. Figure E1 illustrates the proposed mean monthly salary progression for Administrative Assistants over ten years. The entire compensation plan for administrative support roles is structured to pay a premium over the General Singapore Market at every milestone, to maintain its competitive edge.

Figure D1

Monthly Gross Salary Progression by Years of Service: Comparison Between SG General and SG Tech Startup Roles

SALARY RANGES ACROSS GRADES

The salary ranges for administrative roles at InnoTech Ltd overlap to accommodate the diverse scope of responsibilities and varying levels of performance across different positions. This approach recognises that salary progression is not solely determined by years of service or tenure, but also by the individual's achievements, contribution to organisational goals, and the complexity of tasks handled. Overlapping ranges provide flexibility to reward high-performing employees and those who take on greater responsibilities, ensuring that compensation remains fair and competitive for all administrative staff.

Table D1Salary Grades, Roles, and Competencies for Administrative Career Progression

Career Stage	Salary Grade	Role	Salary Range	Core Competencies
Entry Level	A1	Administrative Assistant	$2600 to $4000	Basic admin tasks, scheduling, data entry
Advanced Level	A2	Senior Administrative Assistant	$3500 to $5000	Advanced admin support, coordination, reporting
Managerial	A3	Admin Manager / HR Coordinator	$4500 to $7000	Team supervision, office operations, vendor management
Directorial	A4	Head Admin / Administration Director	$6500 to $10000	HR support, onboarding, employee relations

- Overlapping salary ranges between Grades 2 and 3 ensure flexibility to reward high performers before formal promotion.
- Grade 4 is positioned at a directorial level, aligning with senior management pay scales in Singapore tech startups.
- Evaluation is holistic: performance, competencies, and leadership potential are all considered.

PURPOSE OF PROMOTION POLICY

Promotion policy establishes the principles and procedures for promoting employees through the salary grades within InnoTech Ltd. It ensures that promotions are fair, transparent, and aligned with both individual performance and organizational needs.

GUIDING PRINCIPLES FOR PROMOTION

- Merit-Based: Promotions are awarded based on demonstrated competencies, performance, and potential, not solely on tenure.
- Equity & Transparency: All employees are evaluated against consistent criteria, with clear communication of expectations.
- Organisational Alignment: Promotions must support InnoTech's strategic objectives, operational requirements, and culture of inclusion.
- Development-Oriented: Employees are encouraged to pursue training, certifications, and stretch assignments to prepare for advancement.

PROMOTION EVALUATION PROCESS

- Performance Review: Annual performance appraisals form the foundation of promotion decisions. Employees must achieve at least two consecutive "Exceeds Expectations" performance grading (Grade B) for consideration.
- Competency Assessment: Managers evaluate whether the employee has demonstrated the competencies outlined for the next grade (e.g., leadership, policy knowledge, vendor management, or strategic planning).
- Experience and Tenure: While tenure is not the sole factor, typical milestones (Year 2, Year 5, Year 8) serve as checkpoints for readiness. Exceptional performers may be considered earlier.
- Training and Certification: Completion of relevant training programmes or certifications (e.g., HR certification, management training) is required for certain grades.
- Feedback and Peer Input: 360-degree feedback may be used to assess collaboration, leadership, and cultural fit.

APPROVAL AUTHORITY

- Line Manager: Initiates the promotion recommendation based on performance and readiness.
- HR Business Partner: Reviews for compliance with policy, salary band alignment, and fairness across teams.
- Leadership Panel: Final approval is granted by a panel comprising the Department Head, HR Director, and the Promotion Panel.

COMMUNICATION & IMPLEMENTATION

- Employees will be formally notified in writing of promotion decisions.
- Salary adjustments will take effect in the payroll cycle following approval.
- Where promotion is not granted, employees will receive constructive feedback and a development plan to support future eligibility.
